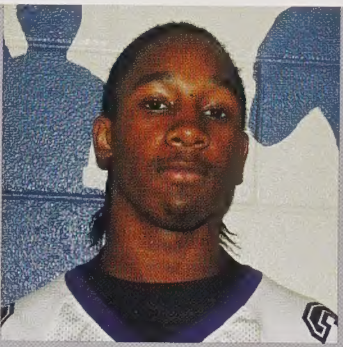
all four years

High school is four years of pain-staking work that seems to never end. It comes with responsibilities that aren't ideal, however, with rewards like getting your diploma and if your lucky, an extended curfew; it pays off. As a freshman, senior year is a distance goal that may kill you because it doesn't seem fathomable at times, and everything in between seems pointless and you feel as if a lifetime is passing by. With this, comes change.

Over four years many changes happen. Children get older; they start to grow up with different tastes and friends, but at the end of those four long, exhausting years of homework and personal growth, those years will be treasured. When life doesn't seem as simple, holding on to those memories of every detail of Prom and that one time your best friend held your hand for you or the teacher who taught you more about life and yourself than English, thats when all four years will come together and their importance will be revealed.

Mikey Harwood, 12

The only reason I have not dropped out is because of my friends and sports.



Dequan Hobdy, 11

I like football; it gets me excited to come to school. My favorite class is Weight lifting.

Melisa Sims, 10

I like seeing my friends and boyfriend- when were not fighting, chorus- and cheerleading.

Nora Stepp, 09

School is a lot more easy in high school; a lot a lot more freedom.

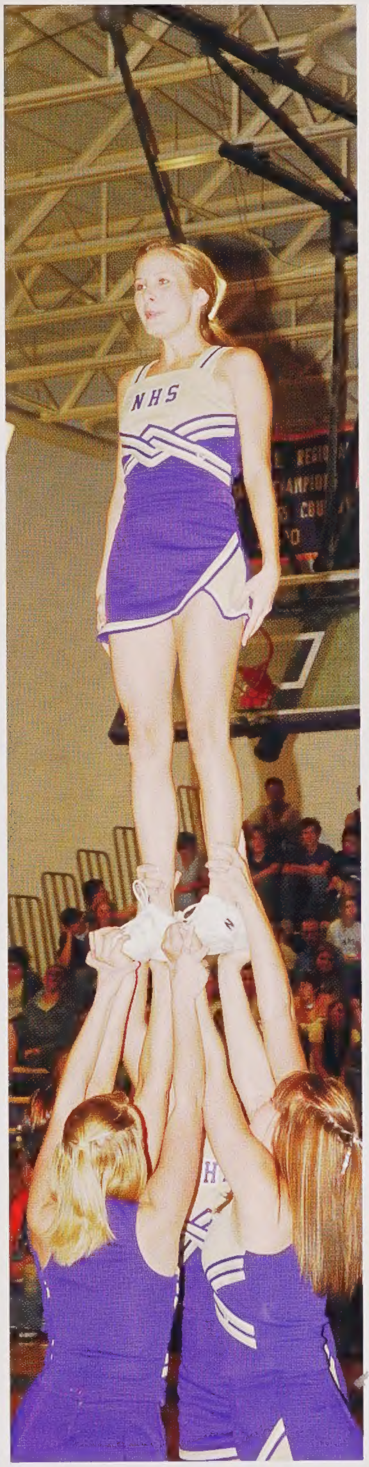
KNIGHTS



180 days a year for four years we wake up entirely too early and come to school to learn and teach, but all any of us really want to do is take advantage of our time together by goofing off, excelling in class, playing sports, making a difference, and just hanging out. With 940 students and enough teachers to go around, we will never be able to find ourselves alone in this school.

Graduation 2007

01 Freel 101

"The first day of the rest of their lives" is what most graduates have said. Some will go to college and find good jobs but they will still have those lasting memories. "For one, when it rained at their graduation last year and they all had to run into the gym where it was very hot and sticky," stated Senior Krantz McGlasson. This is the last time they'll probably walk the halls of high school, walk by a teacher they absolutely hated but realized that they helped them get this far and taught them things that they will carry through the next step in their life. The last time that they saw their parents in the audience with the video camera taping their every move. "My favorite memory of last year's seniors was the pranks that they pulled," said Kate Kimeichiak. Graduation, the best day of a student's life and the saddest. The emotions that come to students often overwhelm them. This is the first day of the rest of their lives. This is the beginning of an ending. This is the day they realized the're not little kids anymore. Its time to be responsible and start their new life.

Prom-

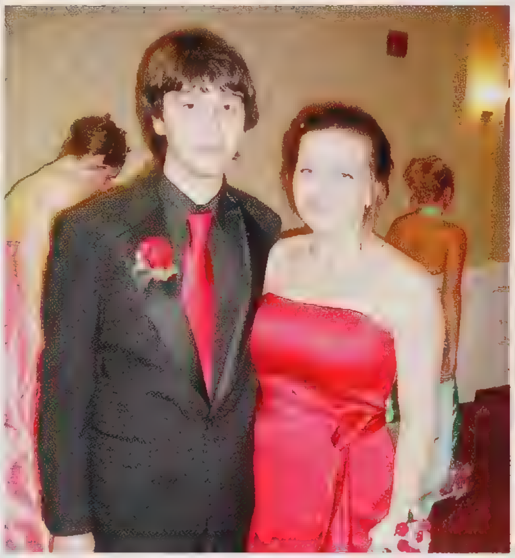
Prom is an event worth getting all dolled up for. Ladies spend all day getting their hair, nails, and make-up done. Even the gentlemen look their best for the spectacular evening.
It brings the Senior and Junior classes together for a experience to remember. It is mainly for the upperclassmen but some Sophomores and Freshman get to enjoy the yearly tradition too. The memories gained at Prom are priceless. The students will always be able to look back and enjoy the experience they had with their friends.

Lauren Odom

"It was pretty good. Good music. I loved my dress its my favorite. They had really good desserts. The place was really nice."

Ms. Moratta

"Prom was absolutely amazing. I was shocked by all the time the students put into it. It was cool to see all the students make themselves beautiful. The time, place, and effort was perfect.



Shelby Murray

"I thought Prom was kind of plain. I didn't really like the location."

Jessica Stewart

"I think Prom could have been better but I wouldn't take away the experience."

Left: It looks like everyone is having a great time and dancing on the very crowded prom dance floor.

Right: Graduate Kayla Swann looks like she is getting a lot of attention with her dance moves.

Rally the Troops

Pep Rallies are a time to get out of class and enjoy the time we get to spend with all of our friends. It is a time for all the sports to get all riled-up before a big game.

Its all about Spirit. The purpose of a pep rally is to get everyone pumped up about the particular sporting event. It is a chance for all the sport teams to be recognized by the school.
It brings more attention to sporting events and gives the school a chance to show off their pride.
Even though not all students enjoy pep rallys, many say it is a great excuse to get out of class and hang out with their friends.
Whether its getting out of class or showing support for their team, all the students are joined together as a school.

"I like pep rallies; I just wish more people would participate."

Ty Williams

Relay Race

I think the relay race was fun. It was funny when [Sophmore] Kim Rush started hitting the balloons with the bat.

-Colton Freeman

"Pep rallies give people a chance to hang out with friends and learn at the same time."

Dustin Little

"I love Pep rallies cause I get to cheer in them."

Missy Carter

I like pep rallies because they are really loud, and you get to sit and chat with your friends.

Rosa Loftis

"I think pep rallies should be longer, and I think they are fun."

Holli Gooch

"They are a great way to show a lot of school spirit; great to get guys ready for games."

Coach Hart

Below: The Dance Team really knows how to excite all the Knight fans. They perform at every pep rally and the fans never get tired of them.

Above: The football players sat together at every pep rally. The senior players enjoyed making a lot of noise when the cheerleaders did their crowd pleaser.
Below: Junior Clay Gross, Ethan Hardin, and Marc Lytle enjoy running flags around the whole gym to make the crowd more pumped up.

ask a senior!

A few seniors were polled at random to find out what their experiences had been and what they'll remember for a lifetime.

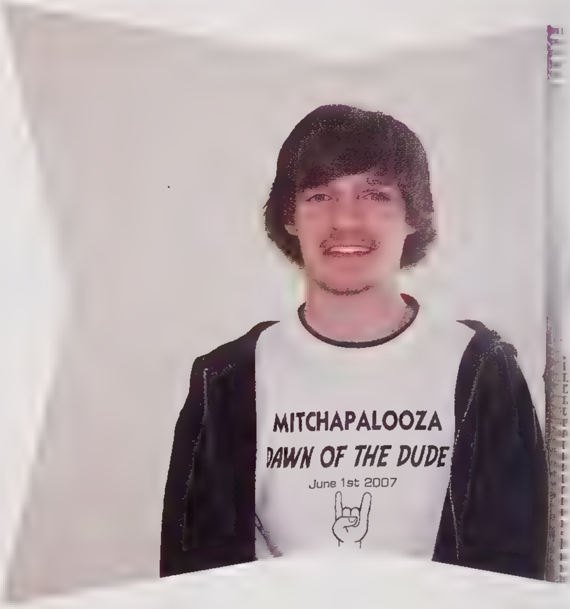
Is there anything you would like to tell the freshman to do that you wish you would have done?

"Don't get lazy, and do all your work."

Do you actually do your homework?

"Most of the time"

- Tyler Spangler



Were you ever a ninja or a pirate?

"Pirate!"

What will you miss the most about high school?

"My friends."

- Lucus West

What is your most cherished memory?

"My most cherished memory is the spring musicals I have been in. The friends I made are the best, they are my family.

What will you miss most about high school?

"I will miss my friends and teachers the most. They have been extremely supportive of everything I have ever done and together we have made a lot of fun memories."

-Krantz McGlasson

What will you miss most about high school?

"Running cross country; I realized at regionals that it was my last race."

Have you kept mainly the same friends from your freshman year?

"No, I've kept the same friends but I don't really hang out with them anymore."

-Chad West

Have you had mainly the same friends from your freshman year?

"No I've had different friends, but I have a lot of great ones now."

In kindergarten, what did you want to be when you grew up?

"I wanted to be a teacher."

-Kayla Corn

What is your cherished memory?

"Meeting my two best friends, Lydia Craig, and Olivdia Toro."

Is there anything that you would like to tell the freshmen to do that you wish you would have done?

"Stay focused through out your year and don't rush it."

-Kristian Gilbert

All the Way Home

Homecoming is known to be the most fun day of the year because of all the spirit the student body has for the football team. It is exciting for the people who were chosen for the court too. Homecoming is a day to remember.

Homecoming. It is the biggest football game of the year. It is where everyone shows up to support the school and shows their spirit, even the alumni. "I love seeing all the students and teachers showing their support for our wonderful team," said Sophomore Zoe Craig. Before the game all the students get a chance to make a "student tunnel." The "student tunnel" was a new tradition started by Mr. Edney. It turned out out be successful. It is not always about the game though. Some students go to the dance afterwards, too. "It was fun. I got to see all my friends hang out," said Freshman Ashley Hensley. While some students enjoy the dance, others don't. "I went to the dance after the game," said Senior Katelyn Kmieciak, "it was lame."

Some students get the opportunity to be on homecoming court. "It was my first time so I was really nervous and excited. However, when I got on the field I was not nervous at all. It was a lot of fun," said Freshman Jaehee Yoo.

Whether on the homecoming court or just being spectator, homecoming is all about the support and the spirit.

King & Queen

"I think it was an honor to be picked for all four years and then become king."
-Canaan Cox.

"It was very exciting because of me winning; it made all four years of being on court worthwhile"

Most Likely To Succeed

Ravin Patel

What college are you planning to attend?
Lauren: Chapel Hill because it has a really nice campus and program and what I want to major in.
Ravin: Either UNC, Chapel Hill, NC State, Ohio State University the're all great schools and I'm and Ohio fan.
When and where do you find the time to study?
Lauren: Anywhere I have time to: I make flash cards and stay up all night.
Ravin: At home usually in the evenings and I'm up pretty late.
Where do you see yourself in 20 years?
Lauren: Have my own law firm in a big city.
Ravin: Working for a law firm in a big city like Charlottle, Clevland, or New York.
What is your favorite quote to live by?
Lauren: "Never regret anything because at the time it was exactly what you wanted."
Ravin: "Make a choice and don't look back on that choice."

Most Artistic

Patricia Tomas
Laz Bishop

Where do you get the inspration to draw?
Patricia: Nature a lot creating unique things. Inspiration also comes from people telling me my drawings are good so I want to keep doing it.
Laz: My parents and my girlfriend and nature because it brings back memories

Who is your favorite artist?
Patricia: I don't have a particular artist I just like art.

Who inspired you to get started drawing?
Patricia: My family and of course Mr. Lewis they told me my drawings were good.
Laz: My friend back in second grade Timmy Green because I stunk at school so I tried to draw.

Do you have a favorite piece you have created?
Patricia: Yes I do I drew it last year it's a tree and ice stirring out and when people see it they say it has a story behind it like a mystery.

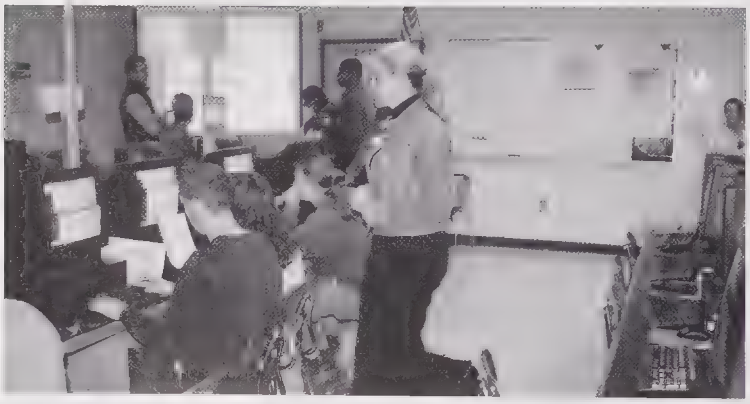
Below- Senior Ben Klump applies to colleges online.

All For a Scholorship



Some of the seniors on college day try their best to listen to the helpers coming around to give them good advice. It is good to know that people want to help students make the right college choice

Mr. Edwards helps Senior Paty Thomas look at all her college choices.

How are You Preparing for College?

Top- Senior Caitlin Stepp works hard to try and find the right college.
Middle- Seniors Scott Lindsey and Chad West are making their college choices. There re so many different colleges available that deciding which ones to apply to can be difficult.
Bottom- Some seniors sit and wait for instructions for the SAT Prep.

"Taking SAT's to help with acedemic money. Playing in showcases in hope of a baseball scholarship. Taking college visits and talking to coaches about which college fits me the best."
-Ethan Pressley

"I am making sure I apply on time for the course I will be taking starting in January at Blue Ridge Community College."
-Kayla Corn

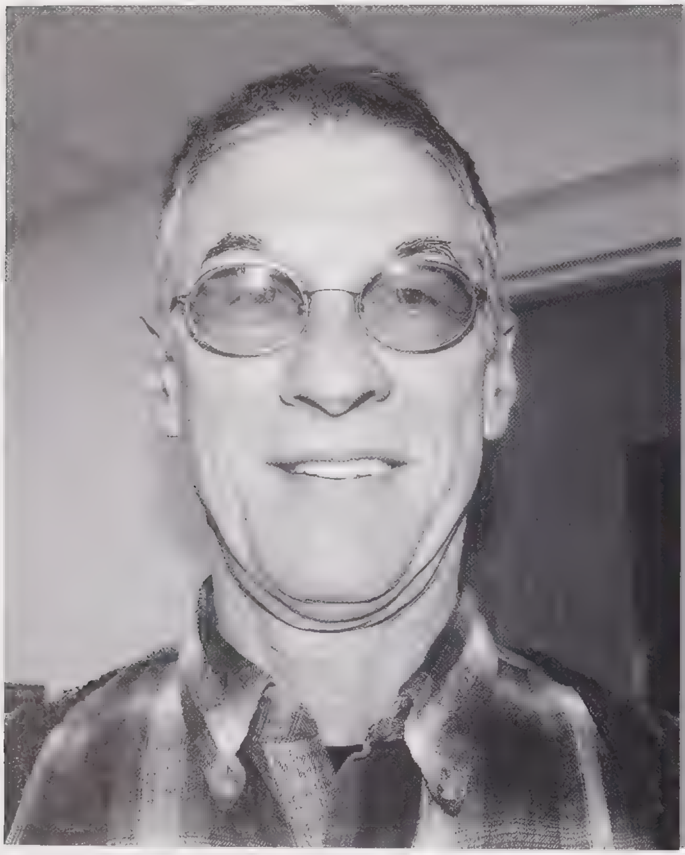
What do you do before the bell?

Many students get here about twenty minutes before the first bell, and while this is a good time to gossip with friends and catch up on make-up work with a teacher, some people don't do the usual before school. Lets see what really goes on before the bell rings...



1. Get out of bed at 5:15 2. Make coffee 3. Go to the bathroom while reading TIME magazine 4. Get dressed 5. Listen to the news and turn on the computer 6. Eat breakfast and drink coffee while doing emails 7. Feed cats and dogs 8. Water my plants 9. Exercise for an hour 10. Get in the car, and drive to school at 7:30 11. Walk around and talk to people
Bell rings...

--Mr. Keller

1. Wake up at 5:30 2. Shower 3. Drink my morning protein shake 4. Get Dressed 5. Come to school at 7:00 6. Read emails before everyone gets in 7. Go to the cafeteria and turn on the lights.
Bell rings...

--Mr. Joyce

1. Get up at 6:12 2. Call Christian 3. Take me a long, [illegible] bath 4. Get ready 5. Drink a cup of O.J. 6. Eat my daily portion of [illegible] frostless pop-tarts 7. Go to school 8. Walk with Christian to Ms. [illegible] class 9. Kiss and say our good-byes 10. Go to my first period class 11. Bell rings...

1. Get Up 2. Use the bathroom 3. Get dressed 4. Drive to School 5. Use the bathroom 6. Wait in my car until 7:55 7. Walk to my 1st period 8. Bell rings...

Junior, Kyle Kelly

1. Get up at 6:00 2. Sleep until 6:10 3. Take a shower 4. Get dressed 5. Do hair and make-up 6. Make my lunch 7. Eat special K cereal bar 8. Get Brand King 9. Get to school at about 7:40 Bell Rings...

-Freshman, Josh Sinclair

Sweet
Freshman Cagni Baxter and Junior Amber Curd get together to pose and take a great picture.

Loving
Freshman Nick Heim receives a nice hug from Freshman TJ Landrum. Its always nice to feel loved by a friend.

Funny
There is nothing better than getting a bear hug from your friend. Juniors Sam Julian and Josh Cawthorn might enjoy it a little too much.

Glamorous
Freshmen Keri Vanlandingham and Skylar Perkins strike a pose while they walk back to class after lunch.

Goofy
It is always fun to act like a strongman and pick up your friend. Freshmen Dustin Little and Josh Sinclair demonstrate.

Junior year is about all extremes. Junior year is exhilarating and exhausting. Between doing homework, sports or even jobs, sometimes it can be hard for a junior to juggle life's struggles. Having a good head on your shoulders is a great way to get by. All of the junior class seems to have a good head on their shoulders as they work towards accomplishing whatever comes next in the future.

Sophomore year, finally! No longer being called a stupid freshmen. Not at the bottom of the totem pole anymore. Just two more years until they're at the very top. It seems that the sophomore class this year is enjoying life at school because they're definitely more respected their sophomore year rather than being at the bottom their freshmen year.

It's the first year of a student's high school career. Students are just trying to find themselves. It is a big change from middle school to high school; no more being babied by all of your teachers. Freshmen are usually picked on by upperclassmen which is very annoying at times. Freshmen are known for being loud and more dramatic. All in all freshman year is a lot of fun.

All Pain No Game

Far Right: Michael Clayton gets ready to throw his two dodgeballs at the teachers to help the students win the game.

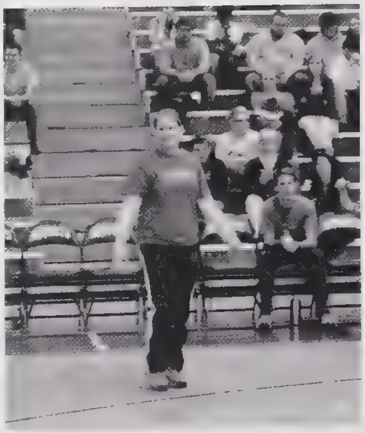
Center: Mr. Gore prepares to peg a student with the ball.



The second annual student faculty dodgeball game was a big hit this year. There were a lot of students who participated. In order to keep from being hit, students had to roll and dodge. It was quite fun to watch up in the stands. Hopefully, in years to come, we will keep this tradition, because it is something the teachers and students can both enjoy.

Most everyone remembers what it is like to take Driver's Ed. At first you look forward to the class, but really it is getting your license that you are looking forward to.

Getting through the class and legally on the road for the first time brings out a little excitment for most students. Often, however, students who are currently taking the class seem to be a little nervous about driving on the raod for the first time.

The spring 2007 play Oklahoma, according to the cast, was a fun, easy play, except for the dancing. The cast had no problem performing in front of the large audience that showed up for all the nights of the show. Most of the cast enjoyed dressing up as their character. "I really loved being a cowboy," said Cannon Cox. Michael Watkey had a lot of fun being the main character even thou he said it was a challenge.

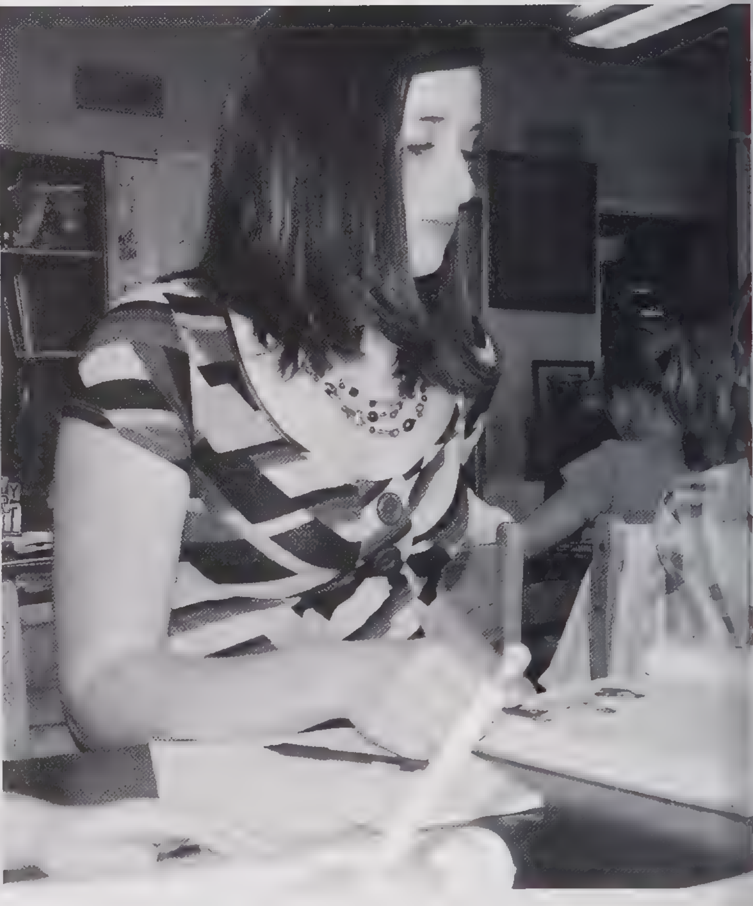
Similar Triangles

all work, no play.



School is ultimately intended for learning, and with that comes the responsibility of working hard before doing the fun stuff that we'd like to believe school is all about. Along with all of us busy students, 76 teachers, assistants, and counselors are here to encourage and assist us with class work that seems to get in the way of relaxing. They are the same people who will argue that class isn't always boring and pointless. Most teachers attempt to make class seem like the fun part. So be prepared for class and proceed.

All for discipline

The JROTC is an association of young patriots training to be leaders in society. Our citizens benefit greatly from this leadership training by learning more about decision-making and self-control.

Sophomore Sarah Smith said she joined because of the discipline of the class. That is one of the things that is needed in today's society: discipline and training to act in accordance with rules. JROTC focuses on a well-defined skill base that is needed.

The uniforms are part of the military persona and are recognized in JROTC. In addition, one Sophomore, Jordan Penley said that "the uniform makes me feel proud because I have the opportunity that not many people have." Zac Tatham, a freshman, said he likes to show his awards and medals on the uniform.

"Even though our program is only going on two years old, we already have so many participants." And the ranks they have are numerous. One of them is a Cadet Captain but says she is not better than anyone else

Although there is no obligation to join the military most of the participants are going into the military. Air Force, Marines, Army, Navy, and Coast Guard have all been mentioned. They are willing to put their lives on the line to protect our nation. That is admirable.

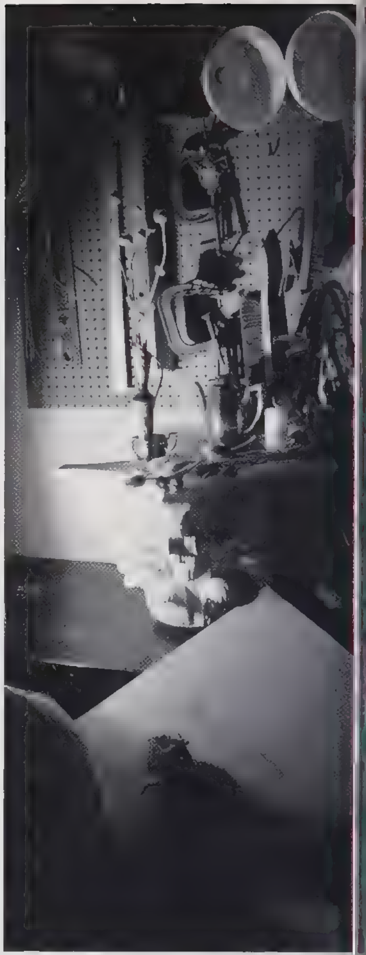
Artistic View



Anyone can put paint, pastels, or just plain pencil on a surface and call it done, but making their creation more than ordinary is what the art student does best. Most of the students get involved with art in middle school, but high school is the peek time to progress. When asked in what area she has grown the most, Freshman Conduce Tellin replied, "shading because I found other techniques that I really like and could use." While the majority of freshmen and sophomores are not able to see much progress from their classmates, upper classmen like senior Patricia Tomas can easily note much progress throughout all four years.

When excelling in creativity and art skills, it is sometimes hard to pick a favorite artist, which would explain why different answers came from each student. Junior Sam Julian favors Paulo Picasso while sophomore Ashleigh Owens decided she does not have a favorite artist. Instead of students favoring another artist, what about themselves and their own work? In their own collections, Sam Julian's Backstreets of Berlin is his favorite and Patricia's was her project showing a form of peace.

So where exactly do they prefer to express their ideas? While some students enjoy working in the classroom, Sam simply said, "sitting next to Turner and Ben." Finally, when asked what materials they like working with the most after all, pencils and Prism Colors were both favored more than anything else.

These students might share something in common with one person or another, but all four are excellent in the art room along with all the other art students here at North Henderson and the school sure isn't afraid to highlight the students love for the subject.

all in sync

When listening to the North Henderson drumline, strings, and choir you can hear a divine symphony of musical sounds. These talented teens all had to start somewhere. Senior Mikey Harwood notes, "I started with the basics again; now it's on to the harder stuff." The harder stuff is down the road for freshmen Erica McMahan, who knows that she still has a lot of improvement to make before she gets to Mikey's level. She says "On a scale of one to ten, I was a ten but went to about a four." Students have an opinion of how good they are, and each student is sure to progress throughout their high school years.

In many cases, children at a young age are not fortunate enough to be taught to play an instrument or how to sing; however, those students who are prove themselves when they play for others. High school is all about progressing and getting ready for the future, and if the drumline, strings, and choir classes progress as well as they have, no one would be surprised if some students went on to enjoy the activity beyond graduation.

Most students who do not participate in band, strings, or choir do not fully understand the importance of music classes. Senior Ethan Gibbs understands when he says "music is a universal language, it tells stories, has feelings, and also has a great sound."

Do you ever find yourself singing along with a song, or maybe tapping out a beat that sounds awesome? You never know what you can do until you unleash it. Obviously, there will be some criticism in order for you to improve, but this is the time. Its your time to shine. So, as Mr. Cagle the choir teacher would say "Ask them to try, see what they do, and if it is good ask them why aren't they in one of the music classes."

Teen Living

Wanting to improve on life skills or be a master of your own destiny? Taking Teen Living class can help with almost all areas of a student's life. It helps students become better people and it teaches them how to live their lives better. This course enables students to learn how to raise children and know more about nutrition and cooking.

Two of the many reasons why Jessica Beam took the class are because, "Honestly, I like to cook and sew." Often, when taking a course like Teen Living, it usually impacts how you look at life; you may also change your perspective about growing up and being on your own. Being more experienced at handling some life problems will aid Teen Living students in making the best of their future and being better people. Some may agree that it changes your views, and others may disagree and say that it really doesn't change anything.

Each person enjoys a different aspect of the class, but Alicia Wood replied that getting to meet everyone was the best part of the class. However, others may find that when they got to make Play-Doh, it was the most exciting activity. Most of the students in Teen Living notice that taking the class will greatly help them in the future. Whether it's in the near future, or the long road ahead, Teen Living is definitely more than a little beneficial.

all healthy

"I want to be a registered nurse specializing in natal care and go to Clemson," says Junior Ashley Young. So what exactly is Allied Health? It's a course that highlights studying the body and different things about the body. When taking Allied Health, students try to figure out if going into the health field is the ideal future for them, and obviously it is for Ashley. In high school, whether it's improving skills you already know and love, or finding new ones, students are normally focused on what their future will be like. Allied Health is definitely a course to take for Health-related futures, and is the exact course many people who want to continue in health care take.

When asked what she enjoyed most about Health-related occupations, Junior Katie Repass responded by saying, "You get to work with a lot of different people." One of the more involving activities is when the class helps out with the all important blood drive. Other ways the Allied Health students contribute is when they help their classmates understand other terms or assignments and the class becomes group oriented. This creates more communicative students and helps them progress in more than one area.

It is very easy to get confused, not to mention influenced, on the road to finding a career that suits you, and most times the people who influence your decisions are family, friends, and other peers. Not only have some of the Allied Health class been influenced by grandparents and parents, but others are influenced even by best friends. In Allied Health, students not only aid others, but sometimes get guided into the future.

Carpentry

Carpentry class is one of the many vocational classes offered by North Henderson. Like all vocational classes, it gives students the opportunity to learn skills that can help them get good jobs when they graduate. Students in carpentry class learn the proper and safe operation and maintenance of power equipment, lumber characteristics, and the basics of wood framing. Like most specialized classes, students who take more than one class learn more skills. Senior Chance Walton has taken carpentry for two years and enjoys it very much. Senior Josh Laughter has also taken the class for two years, enjoys the hands-on aspects of it, and hopes to make a career out of the skills he has acquired in Mr. Pace's unique classroom. Carpentry students can be seen around campus building benches for students to sit on, constructing bookshelves for teacher's classrooms, and hanging scoreboards and picture frames.

ALL For The Improvement

The Most Improved Student award isn't given to the best student, the most athletic student, or even the cest student. It is given to the students who work the hardest to improve their performance in the class om. Every one of these improved students stepped up and took control of their studies and behavior and ok them to the next level. From English to Math to even Parenting, these students did what it takes to arn them the award for the Most Improved Student.

To the students it was either really hard or really easy to improve. "It was hard," was Freshman Elizabeth obinson's response. "It was easy," was Sophomore Daniella Rodriguez's opinion. Each student was also iven a special reward by their teachers. "I was rewarded with a ceremony and passing the class," said reshman Elizabeth Robinson about her reward from Mr. Cagle.

How did these students achieve the award? They all agree that they had to work harder. These students are he perfect example that with hard work, come many benefits and rewards. They also show that taking their ducation seriously can really help them in the future.

HIGH SCHOOL

Technically speaking

When some people think of technology, they think expensive, fancy, and modern. The newest technology people automatically think of would be items such as, technology devices in their home these days, including a computer, a television, and some kind of phone.

Having technology can be positive and negative. Some people think that we are becoming too dependent to think for ourselves. Junior Tiffany Layton said, "Its becoming too much, its kind of taking over." But some people think that, in fact it is a great help to everyone and they are glad with all the advances and improvements that are occurring.

There are many advances in the typical machine. Sophomore Brittany Barnwell thinks that technology is rapidly improving and it is changing the way we live and most of our daily functions depend on technology. The internet is everywhere; gaming is portable; text messaging on cell phones is the preferred method of communication, and satellite navigation systems in our cars give us directions to anywhere we need to go. Technology classes at North help students harness this incredible technological power.

FOR Everyone Else!

Giving blood to save other's lives is a compassionate action that will make you happy to know you are helping other people. Andrew Harris, when asked about his first time giving blood said, it " was a cool experience and it did not hurt." Giving blood is a small sacrifice students can make that will help others and quite possibly save a life. The Blood Drive is sponsored every year by HOSA and each year North Henderson students lead the way with their enthusiasm and self-less giving. Many North Students gave blood for the first time, because 18 is the minimum age. The Red Cross provided students with cookies and juice, as well as blankets, to keep them comfortable during and after the procedure. For many high school students, giving blood is a rite of passage, a signal that, along with voting and registering for the draft, proves the responsibilities of adulthood. North students proved their sense of responsibility once again this year by showing up and giving.

Preparing to give blood is Senior Hope Clayton. "I gave blood to get out of class." said Hope.

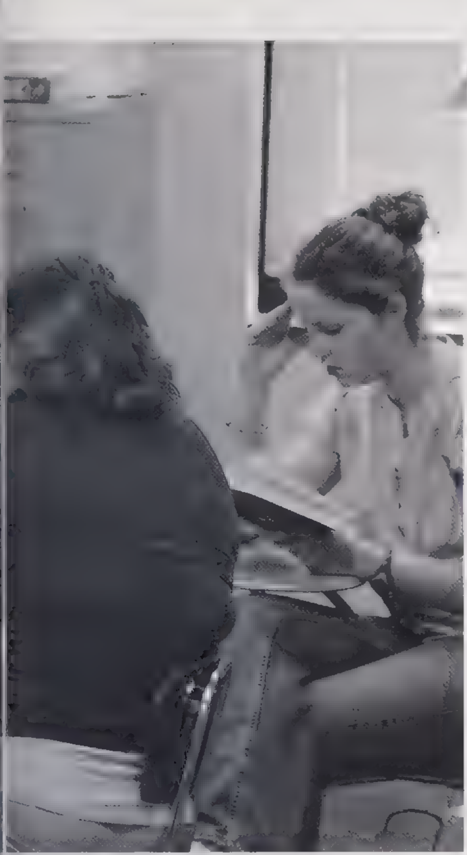
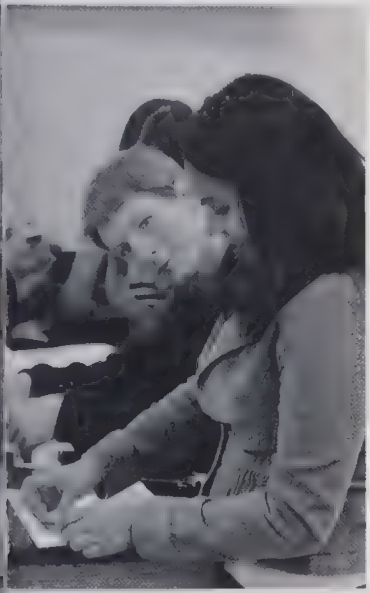
AP Classes



North holds many AP classes. AP stands for Advanced Placement. AP classes are courses students take in high school and receive college credits if they pass the final exam. AP classes are available for juniors and seniors. Students can also take it as sophomores as long as they pass a test letting them into the class. Most students agree that AP U.S History is the most challenging. The hardest thing about AP U.S. History was reading Enduring Vision, says junior Jamie Stanley. Her advice to anyone taking AP is to study a lot. Senior Jessica Wright took AP English 3, Government, and Calculus. She agrees that taking AP was a wise decision. Her advice to anyone interested in AP is to study for the exam. AP classes are challenging but definitely pay off.



Paying close attention in Mrs. Case's AP U.S History class are Kelsey Sabo, Everett Hardin, Marc Lytle, and Ethan Hardin.

Let's All Move it!

What is your favorite type of dance?

"Hip hop is my favorite dance because it is fun and it's a faster beat." -Ashley Wilson

"Hiphop because it's not all that ballet." -Kerri Vanlandingham

"Hiphop is the most fun dance cause it gives you something to dance to". -Katelyn Nicholson

"Hiphop is my favorite dance" -Pressley Tipton

Who doesn't like to dance...? Well, there is o thing for sure, the girls in Ms. Justice's dance class do. Dancing is one way to express personality other than clothes and the people you hang out with. There is nothing better than having fun with friends and doing something that most people enjoy. Dancing i very difficult, but Ms. Justice is a great teache and does a great job with her students.

Freshmen Cagni Baxter and Jessica Rapisarda are practicin their dance; perfection is something these girls are going for.

Act It all Out

The arts provide an outlet for kids to express themselves in different ways other than academics or sports. Ms. Byoric's Theatre classes offer students a chance to express their emotions and show their skills in something they love. Theatre classes give students a change from sitting in a desk for ninety minutes and enable students to be creative and expressive in ways a traditional class does not. Students learn basic acting skills as well as more complex aspects of theatre like memorizing lines, scene set-up, lighting, costumes, and line delivery. Classes meet every day in the theatre, and North Henderson students are treated to at least two performances a year from theatre students.

Auto-Matic

Brakes, tires, transmissions, even the wind-shield wipers: the students who take auto-shop as an elective get to know every part of an automobile. Hands-on experience is just one of the many advantages of the class. Mr. Byrd makes the class fun and eventful. Some students even get the privilege of getting their cars looked at by the class. It's a chance to learn new things that help students fix their cars or go on to become a well-paid automobile mechanic.

How do you think this class will benefit you?

"It will benefit me after high school, by giving me the basic knowledge of cars."
- Sophomore Daniel Prendle

"If I get stuck on the side of the road, I will know how to fix my car."
-Sophomore Andrew Robinson

"It will give me a college credit."
-Junior Jeremiah Cook

"My own personal use. If my car breaks down when I am driving down the road I wil be able to fix it myself."
-Junior Caleb Moore

All For English!

English Classes aren't as "boring" as they once were. From working outside to using laptops, the activities being used to teach students at NHHS make these classes an enjoyable experience. Students in these classes even say that it's easier to pay attention. When students enjoy the work they have to do the class becomes easier and students have no problem paying attention and learning the things they need to know by the end of the year. These activities are a great way to make learning fun.

Some students even want to continue learning after school. Miranda Gibbs says that she enjoys the subject, and Laz Bishop says that the class is easy "you just have to pay attention and stay focused." Some of the students enjoy the work as well as the projects. Freshman Rachel Haskell says that her favorite part of English is writing.

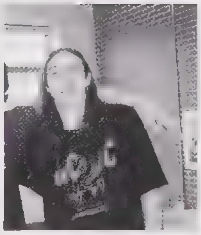
What is your grade in English? Why do you think you have that grade?

Probably an A because I pay attention

- Senior Laz Bishop

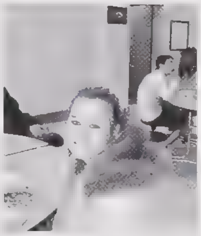
A + I work my hardest and brown nose alot.

- Junior Travis Brown



90% or so; I didn't turn in a paper.

- Sophmore Nick Tefft



An "A" because I am good in English.

Linguistic

Knowing a foreign language can be very useful. In the U.S there are all different kinds of languages spoken and if you know how to speak a foreign language, you have an advantage over those who don't. If you visit another country and know the language, even a little bit, you can get around much better.

Sophomore Brandon Cox is learning a foreign language for college and so he can get ideas about what other cultures would be like. Its a good idea because many colleges now require applicants to have at least two credits in the same foreign language. They can also help to improve your S.A.T scores.

In many higher paying jobs employees may be required to know a foreign language. Not only does this help you at your job, it also can be a fun way to socialize with your foreign friends and people of different cultures. Freshman Dustin Little said, "I am currently taking French. I chose French because I know many French friends, and also plan on working in the gaming department."

Not everyone knows a different language though. Some people simply choose not to take a class because they are not interested. Senior Laz Bishop said, "Everyone should be required to take a foreign language because there are other languages besides English and there are a variety of different cultures." Dustin Little said, "A foreign language should be something enjoyed, not required." Either way, its a good to get a head start and know a second language .

If you could learn any foreign langauge, what would it be?

"French, because French people are hot and the way they speak is really cool." -Freshman Cynthia Johnson

"Italian because Italy and the Italian culture has always been a fascinating subject to me. I've also always wanted to go to Italy ,so knowing the language would help." -Sophomore Lyndsie Cook

"Pig Latin because it is the long lost ancient language of the pigs and it's cool."
-Junior Ryan Mercer

"German because of it's strange, but fascinating history. you know... WWII and all." -Senior Cassie Thompson

Is math a hard class for you? If so why do you think so?

No, I'm pretty good at math.

All For the Equation!

How many times have you heard the question, "When am I going to use this in real life?" in your math class? The truth is that we use math almost everyday: when we judge the distance and time the of the car in front of us so that we can decide when to start braking or when we shoot a basketball. Students at NHHS seem to find math an easy subject to study and teachers easy to get along with. Sophomore Jeremy Hickman, when asked if he liked his math teacher, commented "yeah, she is pretty nice." All the students interviewed replied "No" to the question of whether or not math is a hard class. Senior Michael Schott even said that the easiest math class he has had was his junior year math.

Math will come to play in a lot of the careers that students are choosing, Freshman Max Conard will be using it to help him become a good baseball announcer. He even said he enjoys the class "because we get to work together.".

ALL for science !

From Anatomy Honors to Earth and Environmental Science, to even Chemistry, all students must take a freshman, sophomore and junior science, although many students chose to take more science courses than are required. Science classes require hard work in order to understand such a vast universe. Science classes are very hard for some, but come easy to others. Sophomore Shannon Russell says that science is not hard for her because she is good at it. The only thing that was difficult for her was DNA "because it was confusing." Others are not as engaged in learning science but do it because it is required of them. Junior Laci Peterson says that science is not hard for her because she enjoys it and the hardest thing for her was memorizing the periodic table in Chemistry.

The sciences are classes that help further student's skills in different things in life.

ALL About the Past !!

History is learning about your past. Without knowing your past you wont have a future. One of the biggest subjects here at North is history class. It is important to know about your ancestors and what happened before you. We are a strong independent country built on a foundation and history teaches us about those foundations. Many people want to learn about their past so history won't repeat itself. History class is full of excitement, often taking a roller coaster through the past. Junior Carlee Reiff says that she likes history because it is interesting to learn about her past. History is full of interesting people and their discovery of what has made our country the superpower it is today. The Constitution that we are still using today started in the late 1700s and is the foundation our country is built on. Our country has been through all kinds of fights and when all odds were against us we won and learning about our country and the people that made it this way is what makes history class interesting. But of course history is not for everyone. Senior Tania Quebrado says "It's really hard for me to learn the names and dates for American History .

ALL For The Physical

Its all about the physical and the mental workout. Gym classes are enjoyable and straining at the same time. High schoolers need time to run around and release all their energy they have built up from all the stress of being in class. Gym classes here at North are taken by freshmen mostly, except for weightlifting classes, which are often taken by athletes to help them stay in shape for their sports. Many students take P.E. because they have the urge to have a better physical life. P.E. helps students stay in shape and learn about the different parts of the body. P.E. seems to be everyone's favorite class. Physical education is the most fun thing to do in high school for many students who enjoy getting in shape. It provides a perfect complement to the sports that are offered here at North Henderson.

Never say there is nothing to spark your interest at school. With 20 different clubs, youre bound to find something to do, whether it's because your friends are involved, it will look good for college, or it's something youre passionate about, being in a club is a reminder that we're here for the same cause, to achieve something more.

SWAT formed this year at North with Mr. Cagle as its sponsor. It came about as a result of a presenter, Rick Starbuck, who came to North to speak on the dangers of tobacco use. SWAT's mission is to help raise awareness at North about the dangers of smoking and dipping. Those students who are in SWAT this year all have a personal reason to work against the dangerous trend among high school students to experiment with and become addicted to tobacco. Freshman Katie Cawthorne's grandparents smoked, and she wants to keep students from ever getting started. Junior J.C. Britt watched his mom struggle to quit smoking, and wants to do what he can to raise student's awareness about how addictive tobacco is.

Being at the top of the pyramid is a great feeling, but how do you get there? The answer is simple, Student Council! Not only do members get the opportunity to be more helpful, powerful and more involved, but they also become leaders for their class, and maybe even school.

When in Student Council, members help their school, but more importantly, they help their community. When asked about the contributions Student Council has made to the school, Senior Patrick Singletary says, "We've done campus clean-ups; we've helped at athletic events." Student Council also helps out by participating in various events such as the Relay for Life, March of Dimes, and canned food drives.

Student Council also motivates the school to be more spirited and brings everything together. Members say that it helps them get more involved as well as allows them to meet more people. However, perhaps the most important factor of this activity is fun. Student Body President, Patrick Singletary and the Pep Squad make having fun at pep rallies and sporting events a priority. Their positive attitude and fun spirit result in a great time for all people who attend school events.

When asked about advice for joining Student Council, Sophomore Gopali Patel says, "Being in Student Council is a responsibility and if you take that responsibility, its a lot of fun; get ready for hard work."

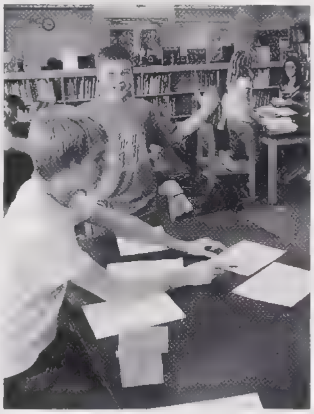
"National Honors Socity builds character in students and makes students help out in the community. It looks great on a college application and makes students reach their highest potential.. -Chelsea Nix



The National Honor Society is about more than just a grade point average. Having the leadership skills to make a difference; service that stretches beyond the walls of a local church and into everyday life; character to be a good person and make a positive impact on others; scholarship to strive for success not only in school, but in life. These are the four principles each member of the National Honor Society demonstrates. When asked about the kinds of activities National Honor Society does, Senior Riki Norman said, "Along with tutoring, we are trying to help out DECA with the Invisible Children and we also volunteer to help out with the special Olympics. When asked about what she likes most about National Honor Society, Junior Chelsea Nix said, "That it's going to look good on a college application, and being able to help the community."

If you're interested in joining National Honor Society, Chelsea said, "Absolutely do it!" Because if it comes down to your college application yours will look better because you're involved. If you're the type of person who wants to make a difference, then National Honor Society is for you!

Chess is a game of skill, strategy, time, and concentration. And for some of the students here at North, it is what they are best at. For some it takes quite awhile to learn something difficult like this, but once you learn it, you might actually enjoy playing. As we all know, Alex Williams dominates at chess. Many have taken on the challenge of defeating Alex but most fail. Some may think that chess is just like checkers, when actually chess is more difficult and takes more time. A game usually lasts about ten minutes, "depending on who I play" says Alex Williams. There are numerous rules for chess: the queen can move in any direction but other pieces such as the horse can only move in an L shape, and pawns, they can only move up one or two spaces. As a child, most of us grow up and learn to play checkers, and then later learn how to play chess, and some of us turn out to be naturals. "Ive been playing since the first grade" says Adam McNeill. Even if you dont have as much experience as Adam, you can still be one of the best, like Alex for example, "I have only played for two years." No matter how long they have played, they all have a love for chess.

In uniform, in step, and outrageous in drill is your North Henderson Black Knights Drill Team. Drill team may seem easy to people who don't do it, but to Senior Mary Parks, Drill is about "working as a unit and being fluid; it's about the bond and the visible life that runs though each of us in unison, keeping our steps in perfect vibration." This year the Black Knights Drill Team made history at North Henderson by being the first drill team in our school's history to compete. Teams are judged by technique, skill, staying in step, and a military bearing, which is to have a face that shows no emotion. It may sound easy to do, but competitors have many distractions all around them.

Some students take drill team to get extra credit, but some take it for the competition because it is something that they enjoy. Freshman Alicia Owen said, "It's something I enjoy because I am good at it." There are many categories to compete in, and choosing one to concentrate on is often better than competing in all of them. Senior Mary Parks said, "Our drilling still needs a lot of work, but for the people who put their hearts into drill, it's a wonderful thing to be a part of. I know potentially one day the heart of the North Henderson High School Black Knights Drill Team will beat in unison and with the rhythm that my own heart feels. I am proud to be a member of the team and I hope one day I will come back and find a balance of family and competition in the team I call family."

Do you need school supplies? The school store has just what you need. With the help of DECA, North Henderson has a school store that can supply students with some of the everyday things they might forget to bring to school. The store is sponsored and managed by DECA with the help of Mrs. Singletary. Along with the school store, DECA also takes part in aiding other communities. DECA sponsors a fund called Invisible Children that helps children in Uganda. This program helps provide the children with basic needs of food, water, and other supplies. Another organization that DECA takes part in is Penny Wars. This raises money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. DECA is a marketing club that usually interests students looking forward to a marketing career later in life. Sophomore Jessica Mentz responded to the topic by saying that she is planning on taking up a career in fashion marketing. Whether you're looking forward to a career in Sports and Entertainment Marketing, like Freshman Jerry Friedman, or Fashion Marketing, DECA is for you.

Health Occupations Students of America (a.k.a. HOSA) is a national student organization that works to encourage health care industry opportunities. The club also tries to improve the delivery of not only sufficier but quality health care to all people. That's the general sum of everything HOSA is, but what do its member do and take part in? HOSA deals with students who are considering a career in a health related field. The students in HOSA help with the Blood Drive here at North Henderson and they also visit nursing homes. When they participate in different activities, such as the Blood Drive, it's obvious they are interested because they work to reach their goals, just as any other striving student would. When students join HOSA, they lear about different opportunities in health care industries. HOSA is great for helping people find out if the heal industry is right for them.

Getting involved with foreign language clubs is a great way to hang out with people who have the same interests. French Club is available at school for students who enjoy the same culture. It offers different activities, such as service projects, and having meetings frequently. One advantage with the French Club is the ability to learn about all the different countries around the globe that speak French, which gives the students an idea of all the countries they can visit after high school with their knowledge from the club. French Club is so inclusive that it doesn't even require its members to be enrolled in French classes.

"The best part of french club was the activities like the Christmas Party and Atlanta Bread Company." -Senior Greg Tabor Sock Monkey Club is a new club here at North Henderson. Sock Monkey is similar to Art Club, says Amanda Lyda, a member of the club. Amanda has been a part of Sock Monkey Club for a few months, and says she would recommend the club to anyone interested in art and creating things. Not only are students involved in Sock Monkey Club, but teachers are involved as well. Mrs. Kass has been a part of the club for a few months and says she joined because she loves sock monkeys. In Sock Monkey Club the members make shirts and sock monkeys. Mrs. Runkle, the leader of the club, has future hopes of her sock monkeys appearing in the North Carolina Museum of Sock Monkeys. The club is open for anyone to join. Sock Monkey club is for anyone and everyone.

Here at North Henderson supporting the athletes is what we do best. That's exactly what our Pep Club does. Pep Club meets at sporting events to support our teams both before and after the events. "Sometimes we go to a movie after games," says junior Kolby Wolfe. "Anyone can be apart of the club, just show up," says Kolby. Junior Ethan Hardin enjoys painting up for games (which is now illegal). Pep Club supports our athletes and pumps them up. Pep Club is carrying out a North Henderson tradition.

Safety is an important aspect of a positive school and student body. Here at North Henderson we hold a program that enforces safety. Crime Stoppers is an organization to help keep our school safe and free from crime. Prize money is rewarded to those who report crime and the club hosts events here at North. Crime Stoppers hosted the traditional dodge ball game earlier this year. To be involved with Crime Stoppers students have to be nominated. Senior Lauren Odom has been a part of the program for four years. Senior Canaan Cox has also been a part of the program for four years. "Having Crime Stoppers here at North is a good idea," says Lauren. Crime Stoppers is always ready to take the opportunity to keep North Henderson safe. Thanks to Crime Stoppers, North can maintain a positive environment.

To be a good leader students must learn how to work with themselves and others. Here at North Henderson, FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America) is the perfect club to join to learn how to be a positive leader and be experienced with business. In FBLA, the members attend leadership conferences and compete. Sophomore Tiffany Layton attended a local competition and won. "At competitions we give speeches," says sophomore Gina Mirkovic. "Anyone is welcome to join," says the club leader Mrs. Jackson. The club is great for anyone who wants to excel in business, says Gregory Tabor. FBLA teaches how to be a good business owner and positive leader in everyday lives.

Anyone can read a drama and discuss it, but it takes pure talent to act it out on stage or produce backstage, which is why some of North Henderson's students are in the International Thespian Society (ITS). Not only do they have insane abilities, but they also love what they do. These theatre students take part in helping out with some of North's theatre productions. They have opportunities to act on stage in front of an audience, or help behind the scenes or backstage. North Henderson's ITS program produces at least one theatre performance each year. "Baby with the Bathwater" was featured as the first school production this year and was reviewed by students as being funny, and outrageous. Canaan Cox, Chelsea Irskin, Michael Wutke, and Hannah Williams all starred in the fascinating drama and made the event fun for all who attended.

Interact Club is all about helping and doing your part. The students who take part in this activity enjoy doing things that benefit the community. Fundraisers like Toys for Tots, Leukemia fundraising and North Henderson's recycling program are just a few things Interact Club does. This year, the club was involved in putting together shelter boxes that later went to needy people and families overseas. They also managed to visit a nursing home over the holidays to wish all the people happy holidays. Not only does Interact help outside of school, but they do their part in school as well. The decorations in the front of the school show just this. Interact club is for people interested in taking part in helping the community and taking away from their time to do something special or beneficial to others.

For the Love of the Game

Touch down North Henderson, and the crowd goes wild!!! Before the games begin Senior Tyler Spangler says, "Everyone is pumped up and excited for the game to start!" Senior Kendall Edwards adds, "Its hard to lose the game especially when we lost to Pisgah; we have never beaten them before and it was only a one point loss!" Junior Jordan Brunelle says, "It was hard at first to memorize the plays until we practiced them over and over." Senior Kalem Lewis says "I am planning on playing football in college because I enjoy every bit of it." Junior Travis Brown says, "If anyone misses an unexcused practice we have to run hills!"

We are proud of our Varsity Football players; they work hard and succeed in representing the school well.

Preparation for the Next Level

Football is not just about the game it's about a lot more. The players have either started because they were interested in the sport, or someone influenced them to start playing. Freshman Nick Heim said, "Payton Manning is my inspiration." Most of the players agree getting to "hit" each other was a great experience since you did not get in trouble for it.

The freshman guys had to deal with the new setup of the team. Freshman Philip Gee said, "It's a lot faster and the guys are a lot bigger." Chase Austin said, "We have to run, hit people, and do drills." They all agree practices are tiring, but fun. There wasn't a tryout for the team; players just came and made it. So the guys had to prove they were the best.

Most of the players plan to continue their career in football throughout high school and if possible throughout college, Freshman Andrew Andreotta said, "I'd like to play in college but I doubt I'd be able to. The J.V players are all eager to become the next Varsity team.

Years and Years of dedication...

K-n-i-g-h-t-s knights the best!!! That is the sound of our Varsity Cheerleaders! Sophomore Cassie Russell, first year of cheering on varsity says stunting and tumbling drives her to cheer more and more everyday. Cassie got started cheering by her mother, "She put me in youth and ever since then I have loved it!" Junior Amber Curd says, "If I have the chance to cheer after college I will take it. Amber's first priority is cheerleading, "I don't have to move my schedule around to cheer: its basically my life."

The thing that moves the cheerleaders to stand in the hot and cold weather and cheer is being seen, heard and watched in the stands and getting the crowd pumped up for our football players. Senior Kate Kmieciak tells us, "Flying is the best part of cheering because it makes people amazed of all the different kinds of stunts we can do."

What is a common misconception people have about cheerleaders?

"I'd like to see the football players do what we do every day!

Katelyn Kmieciak

"All the time and effort you put into it, it pays off when the friday night lights come on."

Alex McMinn

"Cheerleading is a sport... we work harder than most people think. We go to practice every day and work as a team.

Kayla Anders

"Behind every good football player... There's a great cheerleader. OHRAH!

Alyssa Andreotta

All For Our Players

"Go Knights!" all the Junior Varsity Cheerleaders are chanting. Whether the girls are at a football game, shouting at a basketball game, or cheering at a pep rally, they all have spirit.

Cheerleaders get into cheering for different reasons."I started in 3rd grade because my older sister did it and I wanted to," said freshman Cagni Baxter. Some of the girls have been doing it quite a while, but others only a couple of years. "I started in my 8th grade year," said Freshman Katelyn Nicholson. It does not matter how long you have been cheering, it is all about the fun.

Getting influence with any sport is a big deal. You have to have drive, be able to work hard, and have dedication. With cheering there is no exception. "Pep-Rallies influence me because your school notices your spirit," said freshman Nikki Yarbrough. While some girls get influence from the spirit of the crowd, others get it from family. "My mom and my friend-because of them I have cheered since I was four," said sophomore Leah Hoots. Whether it is influence from friends, family, or even the players on the team; it is all about liking what you do.

Showing off their strength, members of the team knock out some push up's after a touchdown. The girls did this after each score.

Dance. Do you think its a sport? Why don't you ask a dedicated member of the dance team. For instance: Amanda Jordan and Cassie Russell have been dancing since they were three years old. "My biggest accomplishment this year was getting control over my fear of dancing in front of people," Kendra Burke said. " The obstacles that I had to overcome were some drama, but nothing is too hard to overcome," stated Jordan Griffin."The obstacle that I had to overcome was the fact that the season was over and I couldn't see the girls any more," said Senior Arelli Perez sadly. The hardest moves vary from leaps, middle leaps, and triple turns.Sophomore Kendra Burke and Junior Amanda Jordan will not be on the team next year. Seniors Lauren Odem, Arelli Perez and Jordan Griffin will not return to dance because of graduation. Good luck with college!

Members of the dance team walk off the court after finishing one of their routines. The girls were happy after getting a routine perfect.

All Across the Land...

you'll find a knight running...

Cross Country is not your typical everyday running. It is a combination of being devoted and pushing yourself as far as possible. You not only have to challenge yourself, but you have to have the ultimate dedication. Senior Chad West said, " It builds a really good habit of practice and helps self discipline and its just plain fun". Junior Everett Hardin said, "The only challenge in Cross Country is fighting yourself."

To many of these Cross Country runners, gaining strength, and durability is what they are used to. Chad West started Cross Country as a junior but ran track before. Junior Carlie Cruz. is in her second season. To people who are interested in joining Cross Country, Chad West mentions, "Get a good pair of shoes and be prepared to work really hard. It is hard work, but in the end it really pays off.

A big favorite of the team is running through the school creek. "It gets really crazy, said Chad West. Many people have joined to see more of their friends. Carlie Cruz said, I would not be doing this without them. Even though people joined for different reasons, it all seems to be working out.

FOR The Glory

When playing lacrosse, every player must be dedicated; every player must be determined to succeed on the field, only then will every player succeed in the game. Lacrosse is an exhilarating, competitive, fun, and physical sport. To some, it seems like a combination of hockey, football, soccer, and rugby. Although Lacrosse is a somewhat new sport in Western North Carolina, Lacrosse is one of the hardest sports to play successfully, as well as one of the most popular sports in the U.S.

Track is not just one sport; it is a mixture of events that many students love to get involved in. From pole vaulting and long jumping, to running the 400 meters and 3200 meters, these athletes draw in a big crowd.

Anyone can participate in a track event; that is why it is a very popular spring sport. Many students every year join track. Some do it because it is going to help them get a scholarship and some just do it to get in shape for another sport. "I am running track to get in shape for soccer," said Freshman Ian Rosner.

In many student's minds, track is all about running. However, not only do the athletes run, but they also throw shotput, discus, and jump the high jump. Many students find these events appealing and decide to try out.

Track has done an amazing job at reaching the top and are doing an even better job at staying on top.

Senior Luke Bradley stands up to escape his opponent. Luke likes to wrestle from his feet instead of on the ground. Luke is very tough from his feet so he often used his stand-up move instead of a reversal.

Fighting FOR a Win

Thud! Crack! These are a few of the many sounds that can be heard at a wrestling match. Whether for a participant or a spectator, wrestling is a grueling sport. Some of the wrestlers are almost experts in the art of wrestling while others have just begun. Whether the first or the sixth time trying out, it still takes hard work and dedication to be a wrestler. Getting in shape and making weight is one of the hardest things to do. In being a part of the team, wrestlers must get along and support each other through their battles.

Many of the team members enjoy the competitiveness of wrestling. Though put through many hours of sweat and pain, freshman Brandt Harris claims " It was all worth it and paid off in the end." Almost all of the team will continue to wrestle in the future at North Henderson.

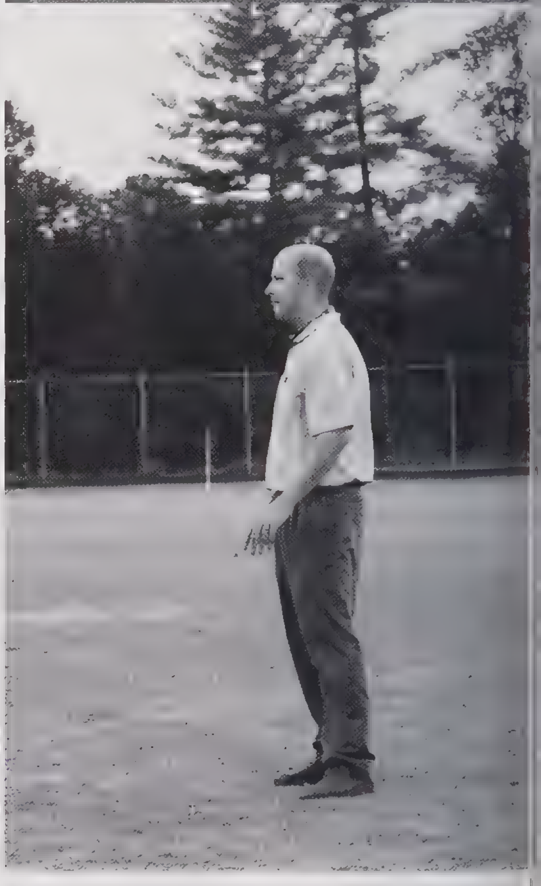
The boy's varsity soccer team runs down the field, kicks the ball, and makes a goal. All their will power and determination is what enables them to win the game.

You cannot really think about much when you are into the game. Senior Angel Rodriguez said, "I never think; just play and have fun." While soccer is very enjoyable, players still have to keep an eye on the ball and know what their next move is going to be.

Most of the varsity soccer players have been playing soccer since they were young. Others have either wanted to play soccer for a while or its something new that they wanted to try. Junior Josh Cawthorn said, "I wanted to play football but I was too small." Senior Ben Baxley said, "Every little kid plays soccer." It is not so much just the idealism of playing soccer; it is also a lot of hard work. "Soccer takes a lot of physical strength to run back and forth," said Ben Baxley. No matter how these guys got started, its all about the effort and teamwork they have together.

Senior Cory Johnson keeps control dribbling the ball down the field. This was a very hard thing to do once you picked up speed.

The team stands in a line on the sidelines before the game. They wait for the Star Spangled Banner and then it's time to play. This was a very anxious point for the team.



Head Coach John Hart stands in the middle of the field to shake his players hands as they come out onto the field. Coach Heart was very supportive of all of his players.

Senior Scott Lindsey rears back to get the ball out of Knight territory. These guys would have to get the ball as far down the field as they could when it got close to their goal.

Freshman Eddie Mosses jumps up to receive the ball at mid-field. He was good about keeping his hands away from the ball but he was sure to use every other part of his body.

Senior Ben Baxley catches his breath during the game. Soccer involves continuous running up and down the soccer field trying to out-hustle the other team. It's a very tiring sport.

Sophomore Josh Cawthorn dribbles the ball past the defender. Once Josh got into open field he was very dangerous, having speed and quick reactions.

Trouble FOR the Other Teams

Spring means women's varsity soccer. Anyone who has ever watched North's varsity women's soccer team in action can attest to the excitement and dedication these ladies bring to the field. Soccer is a demanding sport and to be successful players must bring many things to the field. According to senior Lauren Wilkie, being successful in soccer requires "never giving up, and teamwork," while fellow senior Kenny Rodriguez adds that soccer requires "motivation." Senior and captain Lauren Odom, who broke the school's record for number of goals scored in a career, said that "soccer requires hardwork, endurance, communication, and sportsmanship." Soccer may never be as popular as football and basketball, but its popularity is growing every year, with good reason.

Moving FORward

Hours of practice and running can be strenuous for athletes. Soccer is definitely not an easy sport. Running has been the biggest challenge this year, says freshman Kerri Vanlandingham. The soccer team practices five days a week after school and has up to two games a week.

Soccer is a great sport to help with leadership skills. Soccer involves team work and patience. Captain Gianna Miracle and Co-Captain Corbin Huntley both agree that soccer is a stress relieving sport.

"My favorite thing about being on the team is getting to know girls better I dont know," says Gianna. The uv women's soccer team has won games so far and wont be slacking off any time soon. North has a great uv soccer program

YEARS Payed Off

Hours of practice and dedication is the key to be successful on the baseball field. The varsity baseball team practices five days a week, three to four hours a day. Baseball isn't as easy as it looks. In fact, playing the sport involves a lot of focus and talent. Its easy for a player to be distracted by a small noise and mess up. "Our flaw this year has been hitting," says junior Nickie Estes. His most remarkable memory was winning conference his freshman year. The team's hard work has reflected in this year's games."Baseball is also a dangerous sport," says junior Kevin Searcey. "You risk getting hit with the ball and other injuries," says Kevin. Most of the players agree that most of their injuries have resulted from sliding from base to base. The team keeps getting better and better. Their hitting and defense have improved a tremendous amount. North's varsity baseball team has improved and set a good example for other sports here at North Henderson. The team has defined the meaning of "Years Payed Off."

Varsity Softball works its way to the top

The varsity softball team is an energetic group of girls who know how to have fun but at the same time get down and dirty.

Some of the girls on the team at the beginning of the season did not really know each other very well. With the time spent at practices and games, they have become closer. "The upperclassmen have been very nice by helping us," said Freshman Christen Nicholson.

With practices everyday and games two to three times a week the players have been getting better as well as the team as a whole.

With hard work and dedication, these girls show that they are in it to win it.

Below: Coach Pielech studies the other team's players and looks for possible weaknesses

Sophomore Natalie Cannon releases the ball and is waiting to hear whether the umpire thinks it is a ball or strike. Because the umpire's strike zone varies, she has to pitch the ball precisely to where he will call it a strike. Natalie is able to strike a lot of batters out by pitching the ball where the batter will swing and miss the ball and mixing up which pitches she throws to them.

Above: The team stands on the third base line waiting for the infield to finish warming up before the game

Heading FOR the top

Rounding third and heading for home, these hard working athletes can only found on the baseball r softball diamond. Whether it is rushing for a pop fly, shuffling for a grounder, or speeding around ıe bases, these competitors put a lot of heart into every play.

All players have to do their part on the team, so every player needs to play their position well. "I lay first base because it is a really involved position and I like to be involved," said Freshman Allen tepp. His teammate Freshman Logan Stallings said, "I like playing right field because I like playing utfield and move the most out of the other positions."

Junior Varsity has certain drills that they need to do to work on their fundamentals. "We do the iangle drill, batting drills, throwing drills, and a lot of running drills," said Sophomore Stephanie ennell.

When warming up for a game, it is an instinct to check on the other team to see how they are oing. It is important to zone in on the opposing team's weaknesses. Freshman Christian Singleton ıid, "I look for how fast the pitchers are and how well they can field the ball." Many team eaknesses aren't about their fielding or hitting, Freshman Logan Stallings said, "I try to find lack of ommunication."

The combination of hard working players and amazing coaches make for two hard to beat teams.

Going For The Gold

Strength, dedication, and stamina are key components that make up the swim team. Anyone can swim, but to swim competively takes a lot of heart and power. The swimmers all have challenges that they face. "Trying to catch up with the other swimmers and dropping my times," was Freshman Brandon West's biggest challenge. How did he overcome such a difficult challenge? "I got more practice in and other swimmers gave me tips on my form."

Practice is everything, the team meets 2-5 days a week to work on their techniques and forms. "We practice what we are going to be doing for a swim meet,"said Sophmore Sofia Gomez. "I keep practicing until I get better and faster."

Swim meets are very nerve wracking to some, but to others they are a journey of self discovery. "My body goes into overdrive; all of my conditioning and practice takes over my muscles' movement, and all I have to do is remember to breath." stated Senior Chad West.

Swimmers are unique in the fact of mental preparation. Senior Chad West said, "I look across the pool, close my eyes, and feel myself charging through the pool before I ever touch the water."

The swim team is committed to what they have to do. They have fun but at the same time perform to the best of their abilities.

Fighting for the Win

The Varsity Volleyball team is very determined and dedicated to the team. Players on the team have been playing for a long time. They have started because of their family, their friends, and themselves. Junior Brianna Jackson said, "My cousin Alex got me into it. Were really close." Volleyball like every sport; it is very intense and you need to have a team that is fun to be around. Junior Kayla Hodge said, "What I like most about the team is new friendships."

They all have a bunch of different ideas about what is challenging. Junior Sierra Wright said, "Defense because I'm tall and I dont like getting low. Brianna Jackson said, "Digging the ball when the other team is hitting at you." Sophomore Amanda Lyda said, "learning how to do new plays and improve on your skills."

The girls all love the sport. Amanda Lyda said, "I want to go to college and play, and of course play throughout high school." Sierra Wright said, "possible, for a long time as long as it stays fun."

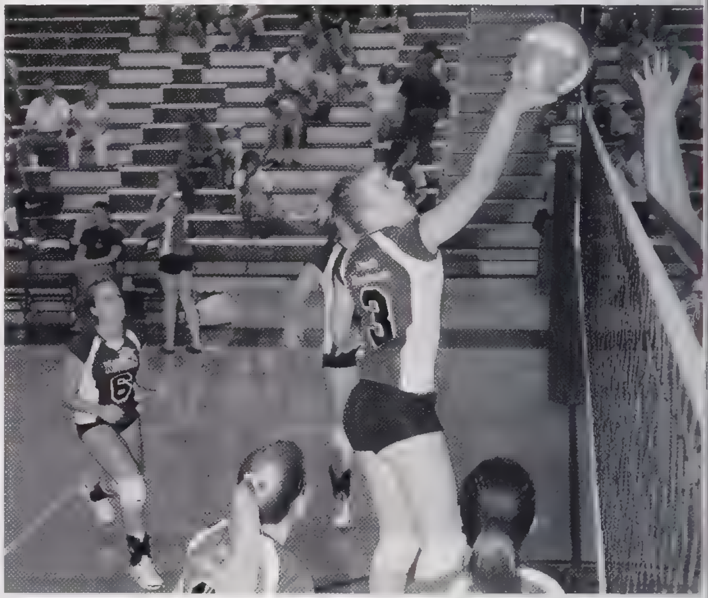
Sophomores Ashlee Sims. and Amanda Lyda catch their breath between serves. Playing a full volleyball game can take a toll on the body. Players have to be very well conditioned.

Juniors Katie Bradley and Brittany Freeman get set as the other team prepares to serve the ball. Brittanny and Katie are some of the team's best serve receivers. They are responsible for getting the ball to the setter.



Junior Brittany Freeman demonstrates tipping which is basically trying to get the ball over the blockers to get the opposing defense to move out of the correct formation.

Head Coach Bonnie Dotson and assistant Coach Richard Cagle watch their team and coach from the side. The two worked well together.

Juniors Breanna Jackson and Sierra Wright are awaiting the serve. Sierra is suppose to "take away the line" and cover short, while Breanna is supposed to cover deep balls in the middle of the court. The two were a good team together and did a good job at putting the ball into play.

The varsity team gathers for a chant before there game. The girls did this before every game and it was meant to get them pumped and to get the crowd into the game. The girls expressed a lot of spirit during this time.

Junior Katie Bradley hammers the ball over the net. Katie plays hard every time she steps onto the court. Katie always did everything she could to help the team win.

Juniors Lindsay Corn and Kala Hodge cheer on their team from the bench. While players are on the bench they are asked to help the team by taking and recording stats of the other players. Kala is a right side hitter and Lindsay is a outside hitter.

Junior Sierra Wright gets a close up picture taken of her while she walks back to the line to serve the ball. The server changes with each possession change.

Against All Odds

Many of the players have been playing volleyball since middle school, although some of the girls haven't been playing all that long. Freshman Bailey Dalton said, "Coach Rhymer approached me in the 6th grade and wanted me to play. I went to a clinic and fell in love." This team is really close. Freshman Dana Wray said,"I like how we are like family." The JV team is very dedicated and they all practice out of school.

Practice lasts from 3:15 to 5:15. Freshman Ashley Brown said," We practice on the weekends sometimes." They do a lot during practice. Sophomore Crystal Gilbert said," We run for the first 30 minutes, we play volleyball for an hour and a half and we lift weights." Dana Wray said," Games are exciting . It's hard playing against a good team, but also fun."

Dana Wray said the most challenging thing about volleyball is losing "It is really hard to lose and play again and have the hope of winning." In the end it doesn't matter. Freshman Autumn Walden said, "The most challenging thing is being able to tell where the ball is going to be hit."

Freshman, Bailey Dalton prepares serve the ball during their ga against North Buncome. Bailey ha strong serve and scores many poi from the serve alone.

Assistant Coach Mr. Cagle brings the team in to break them down. The team plays very well as a team and strays away from acting like individuals on the court.

Right: Sophomore Chelsea Wilkie prepares for the serve.

Sophomore Crystal Gilbert warms up before the game. It's best to be loose and have your muscles stretched before you play a game.

FOR the Respect

When watching North Henderson's Varsity boy's basketball, there isn't any better way to spend a school night. This strong group of individuals brings in a huge crowd every time they step onto the court. With their amazing ball handling, shooting, and scoring, they win the crowd's favor as well as the game.

Many of the boys have been playing on the team for years. Senior Patrick Singletary has been playing basketball for four years, while Senior Ethan Pressley has played for two years. Some of the players have been playing on varsity for many years also. "I have been playing for three years," said Senior Chris Vanlandingham.

Even varsity basketball players have their hardships. Even a good player like Senior Patrick Singletary has trouble, "My biggest challenge when I first started was getting in shape." Some players had to work their way up to a starting position, "Not playing was a big challenge," said Senior Michael Lolley. With hard work though, he was able to snag a starting position.

One thing that all the players agree on is the very hard practices. Once on the team it can be difficult to stay on. Senior Ethan Pressley said, "It is hard to stay on, you have to work hard."

Due to their hard work and dedication, they have had a winning and fulfilled season.

Top: Senior Ethan Pressley gets past the defense to shoot the reverse lay-up; when Ethan got under the basket alone it usually meant two points.
Bottom: Senior Brad Buckner dribbles to get around the defender while staying in-bounds.

Senior Michael Lolley puts up a three during the game. When Michael got alone in the corner he'd sometimes get hot on the three's.

We ARE one!

A basketball team is like a big family and this year's team was no exception. Student athletes had to juggle many activities. Practices were often two grueling hours; they were, according to Senior Morgan McMinn, "Pretty excruciating." Some students were playing varsity for the first time, while others were completing their fourth year. Challenges varied with every player. "My biggest challenge was stepping up from middle school," Freshman Jodi Edwards stated.The girls interviewed are all doing very well this season. Senior Bailey Brow commented "¡Fabulosa!" when asked how well she was playing this season.When asked if its hard to stay on the team Britney Ramsey commented "Not at all, you just have to stay dedicated." There are three juniors that will return next year.
Senior Morgan McMinn will be playing for Clemson next year. Good Luck!!

Above: Senior Bailey Brow gets her hands up to play defense

The Girls get ready and pump themselves up by getting together in a circle and grunting getting louder and louder. It not only pumped them up but intimidated the other team as well.

Freshman Jodi Edwards keeps the ball away from the defense. Jodi was good at keeping distance between herself and her opponent and making good passes.

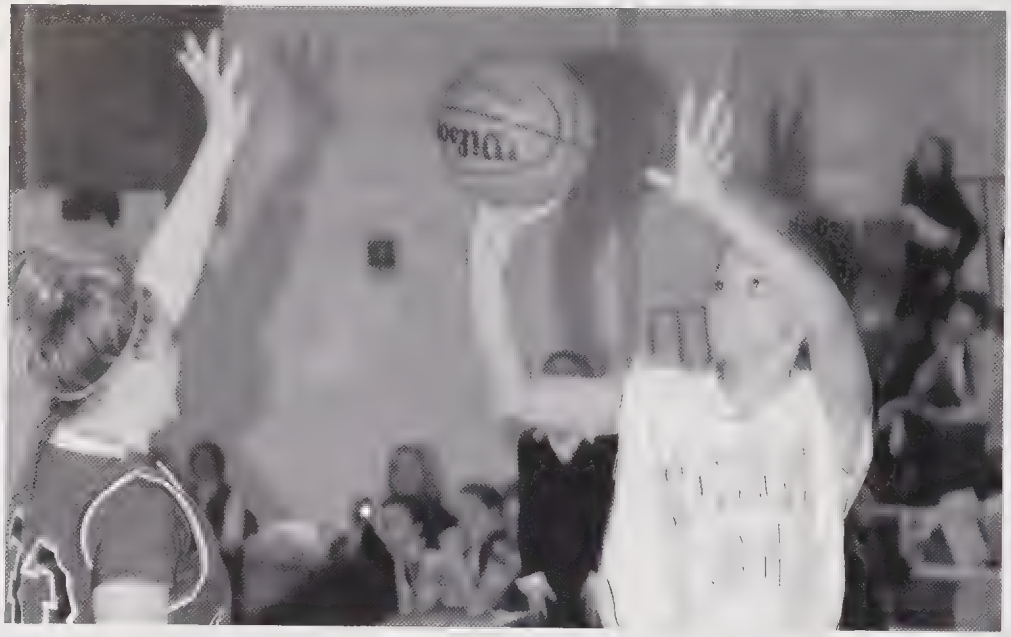
Freshman Amelia Garren pulls up for the shot during a game. Amelia was definitely a "shooter."

Freshman Zach Holden goes for the lay-up while an Eagle defender is trying to block the shot.



Freshman Sara Bradley jumps up to get the rebound. Sara was very good at catching the rebounded ball.

Freshman Colby Drake stops and pulls up for three. Colby was one of the team's shooters and scored a lot of points.

Work FOR It

Junior varsity is only one step away from varsity. Just because they aren't on varsity yet, doesn't mean that these atheletes don't work as hard. The boy's and girl's j.v. teams work almost everyday for two hours on their plays and to get into shape.

Even for a young team, they get better and better each practice and game. "My rebounding has improved."said Freshman Sara Bradley. Her teammate Freshman Jenna DeLeon said," My offensive skills have improved." Freshman Dustin Nix said "Yes I have improved over the season and I owe thanks to the coaches."

All of the plays take practice to get them perfect. "The practices aren't hard"said Freshman Sara Bradley.

Most of these players have been playing for many years "I have been playing since the 7th grade." said Freshman Seth Brown. Freshman Dustin Nix said "Since Biddie Basketball, when I was five."

Most of the junior varsity players like the sense of competition and the rush they get when playing basketball. Junior varsity shows the will to win and demands respect from their opponents.

Above: Freshman Grant Hunt goes up hard for the basket. When Grant goes up for the basket, he does what it takes to score. Below: Head coach Billy Coren talks to the team during a timeout to explain the changes that are going to be made to the game plan.

Freshman Jenna DeLeon gets in her opponent's face as she tries to throw the ball into play. This made things more difficult for her opponent.

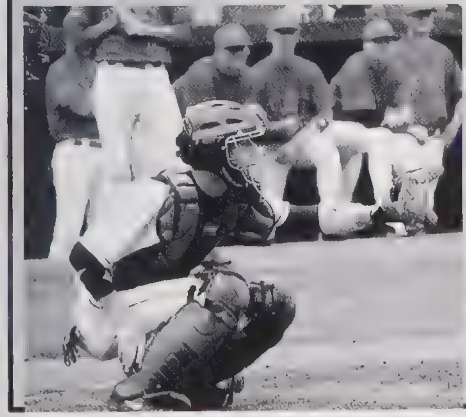
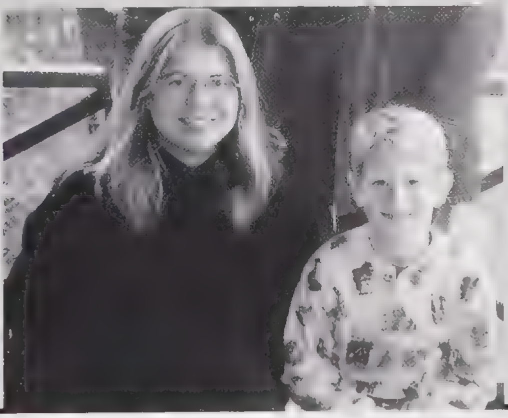
Patrick Scott Singletary

Dear Patrick,
What a blessing God has given us through you and your life. It was just yesterday that you were running down the long driveway in Macon and now you're heading off to college to begin your future. You can do ALL things through Christ who gives you strength. We are proud of your successes so continue your perserverance, hard work, commitment, and leadership skills, values, morals, and honesty. Nana and Papa Bob would be so proud of your accomplishments. Don't forget Nana's favorite verse: "thy word is a lamp to my feet, And a light to my path." Psalm 119:105.

May God bless you and your future.

We love you.
Mom & Dad





Rebecca Chasadi Morrison

Chaz,
We are so thankful God gave us the privilege of being your parents. You've brought us more joy than you'll ever know. You've grown into an outstanding young women. Your bubbly personality and contagious smile brightens every place you go. We know the Lord will continue to bless and keep you. Always trust Him and you will achieve all your goals and dreams. Congratulations "Baby Girl!"

We Love you,

The end of the year is never really the end. It's more like the beginning of a needed change: for some it's time to get ready for the next big step, college, while for others it's time to work to save up for the ride that will get you to school next year or to work on that tan at the lake. This is the end of the 2007-2008 school year, the end of high school for some, while for others it's the end of freshman, sophomore, or junior year, a year that can never be repeated. All four years of high school are unique, individual, necessary. Remember each one for what it is: a step up a ladder, a step down a path, a mile marker on a road that will soon diverge in a wood. It is that divergence at which all students must arrive; some have arrived already; some will soon enough.

All Four Years...
